The dolls are used to calm children caught in traumatic situations and also helps promote a positive image for all police officers. Pictured with Ronald are Patrolman Dennis Long, who conceived the idea of the program, and children of the area who have already benefited from the program.

New Chimes Enrich City

"Sweet hour of prayer, sweet hour of prayer, it calls me from a world of care," peal the chimes at the Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church each day at 12 noon. Crawford County residents and visitors alike have commented favorably about the new chimes that ring out the hour at 9 a.m., noon, and 6 p.m. that can be heard throughout the downtown area.

The Carillon system, by Maas-Rowe, was installed in April and May and rang for the first time on Mother's Day, May 13. It was dedicated on Father's Day, June 17. Besides chiming out the hour, the Carillon has been programmed to play three hymns at noon. The bells will be rung for all weddings, funerals and community celebrations.

Dr. Dennis Paulson, pastor for Michelson Methodist Church, said getting the chimes has been the dream of several families in the congregation for a long time and these families started the memorial fund that eventually purchased the Carillon for nearly $7,000.

He said before the church purchased the chimes, members surveyed the downtown businesses and nearby residents to get their response.

"The last thing we wanted was to be a bad neighbor," said Dr. Paulson. "But everyone we talked to favored the idea."

He said the owners of the downtown businesses said the chimes added to the atmosphere of the community. "One owner said he opens his door at noon so that his employees and customers can hear them," said Dr. Paulson.

Dr. Paulson said the chimes would soon be programmed to also ring at 9 p.m.

"The slow, solemn and measured toll of the bourdon bell, marks the end of the day and is meant to remind members of the community to pray for their loved ones," he said.

18-Year City Street Program Reaches Goals

By Irene Pettyjohn

When employees of the Nick Jorae Construction Company hung up their hard hats at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, June 8, they probably were not aware that they had accomplished much more than the completion of the 1990 Grayling street construction project. They had also completed the major portion of the city street construction program that had begun in the spring of 1972.

"Eighteen years ago Grayling's streets were a disaster," said one long time city resident. "The paved streets were so pitted with deep chuck-holes that drivers had to proceed as though they were trying to master an obstacle course. Dirt roads resembled washboards, and shook driver and passenger alike."

Another resident remembered that after rain storms, there would be so much rain standing on some streets, that driving through town was like trying to travel through a maze.

"There were many occasions when I had to back my car up a street and take a different street rather than risk having the motor stall in the middle of a puddle that spread over half a block, concealing deep holes. Some looked a big as Lake Margrethe," she recalled. "I gladly voted for the income tax, and our curbs, storm drains and streets are the proof that it was the right thing to do. Now," she continued, "if we could just get sidewalks installed so that all walkers, but especially our community's children, didn't have to walk in the streets, I think our street program would be perfect!"

Bob Bovee, who was on the city council 18 years ago and favored the income tax for street improvement, said he thinks all the curbs and paving have taken away from the community's picturesque "small town" look that helped bring people to the area.

"When we began I didn't know what the community would lose nostalgically," he said. "I kind of liked the small town atmosphere, but now, street-wise, we are a city."

Katherine Nave said she voted for the city income tax because, "the roads were a mess and I felt the city needed to fix them."

She said the money was well spent.

"It's a pleasure to drive on them, and it is also a pleasure not having all the dirt and dust tracking into the garage and blowing into the house through the windows."

When the city was about to vote on the city income tax, Nave said one of her neighbors told her that he would not vote for the tax because he would never live to see the north end of town paved.

"He was wrong," she said.

1990 STREET PROJECT

The 1990 Street Project involved several small construction jobs, "leftovers" from other projects because they required special handling such as obtaining right-of-ways, outlets for storm water, or involved replacement of water and sewer lines.

These "leftover" jobs included Clare, Vilas, Fig, the N. E. and S. W. ends of Ingham, Shellenbarger, Oliver, Fulton and Knight streets, and AuSable Court.

Clare, Vilas and Fig streets are located on the north end of Grayling off McClellan Street. Cul-de-sacs (dead end u-turns) were constructed at the far end of each street. Vilas no longer turns into Fig Street (or vice versa), which eliminated the drive through truck traffic from Fig to Vilas Street, creating a more residential atmosphere.

Fig Street now services only the three homes on the street and a side entrance to Chicken Delights. The intersection of Fig Street and M-72 has been designated "right turn only."

The alley behind Mac's Drugs and the Crawford County Avalanche was widened to 20 feet and storm drainage was installed.

City Manager Jerry Morford said the alley project required the cooperation of the area's businesses, as well as extending the right-of-way from 12 to 24 feet. The city also had to acquire a 30 foot right-of-way from the Detroit and Mackinac Railroad and the state of Michigan for the portion of alley that runs along the railroad tracks to Michigan Avenue.

The southwest end of Ingham Street, near Rays Canoe Livery, was realigned, curbed, guttered, and paved, which required acquisition of an additional right-of-way. The north-east end of Ingham Street was paved, curbed, guttered and cul-de-saced. The street was closed to prevent direct access through to Plum Street to improve traffic control during football games. This project also required construction of a storm drain.

AuSable Court, off Ingham Street toward the river, required completion of water and sewer lines before curbs and gutters could be constructed and the street paved.

Water and sewer improvements were necessary on Shellenbarger and Oliver streets, located behind the Sears Catalog Center, before they could be paved.

Fulton and Knight streets, which connect Madsen Street to Gierke Road, received water mains and sewer lines in addition to curbs, gutters and paving.

All water and sewer work, including the connection of City Hall's sewer to Alger Street lines, were financed with city utility money, and not income tax money, which are earmarked for street construction only.

The street project was completed at 6:30 p.m. Friday, June 8, about three weeks ahead of the June 30th completion date. Total cost was approximately $308,000.

"It has been an excellent project," said Morford.

Don and Elaine Bohemmyer agree. As residents of Fig Street, they had waited 18 years for their street to be paved.

"We never thought we would live long enough to see the street paved," said Elaine. "Once we got used to only being able to turn right onto M-72 West," she continued, "I'm sure we are going to enjoy not having all the dirt, dust, and traffic we had when Fig Street adjoined Vilas."

FUTURE NEEDS

"Now that we have the major needs taken care of," Morford said, "we will be looking around for things that need to be improved on streets that either have already been done, or ones that have not been done at all."

Morford said he has not had five serious complaints about the income tax since he became city manager eighteen years ago and not one income tax appeal has been filed with the city's income tax appeal board.

Morford said he thinks it will take about five years to complete the repaving that needs to be done to keep the city streets in good condition.

"Norway, State and a small portion of Michigan Avenue are already showing signs of their age," said Morford. He said now that the 1990 street project is over he will be re-evaluating the condition of Grayling's streets so that he can present to the City Council his list of priorities for future projects. Within a year or two, Morford said he thinks the council should have enough information to decide what income tax proposal they want to present to taxpayers to ensure that the city streets are maintained.

Because the provisions for the income tax stipulated that "all net revenue derived therefrom be set aside and used only for street, storm sewer, and curb and gutter construction" it will

1990 Weyerhaeuser Grants Top $77,000

The Weyerhaeuser Company Foundation has given $77,000 worth of grants to area organizations in 1990.

The Weyerhaeuser Foundation started presented grants in this area in 1981, and the total has reached $439,851.

The 1990 grants included a $15,000 donation for a American Red Cross regional blood facility in Petoskey, according to Douglas King, Human Resource Manager at the Grayling Structurwood facility off Four Mile Road.

Other recipients of grants in 1990 are United Way, Kirtland Community College/Weyerhaeuser Company Foundation performing artist series, Central Michigan University Public Television, Kirtland VISCAP, Mercy Hospital, Houghton Lake School District, Gorrish-Higgins School District, Crawford AuSable School District, "Michigan Outlaws" Public TV program, City of Grayling, Beaver Creek Township, COOR Intermediate School District.

The Weyerhaeuser Company Foundation was established in 1948 as the principal means of philanthropy for Weyerhaeuser Company.

In 1989, the Foundation awarded 813 grants totaling $5,374,584. This brings the Foundation's total of grants since it was formed to more than $70 million.

The Foundation's two-fold mission is: (1) to improve the quality of life in communities where Weyerhaeuser has a major presence; and (2) to provide leadership that increases public understanding of issues where society's needs intersect with the interests of the forest products industry.

Grants can be made only to private, non-profit, tax-exempt organizations.

Frederic Field Day

REFRESHING BREAK—Competition was fierce last Monday as these children took part in the Frederic Elementary School's annual Field Day. The water table was a popular activity. It was a good cooling off stop. Everyone who left the activity was wet to their socks!

WIND-UP AND LET FLY—These boys were involved in a hot game of bean bag toss, while the young lady looked on, waiting patiently for game's end.

HOP! HOP! HOP!—Children have competed in sack races since the first gunny sack was made, and these children are no exception.

Telephone Scam Reaches Crawford

The Crawford County Sheriff Dept. has received information from area citizens of a possible telephone scam occurring in the county.

According to the police, the caller states that the person receiving the call has won a contest and asks questions regarding the person's finances. The caller will then ask for saving and checking account numbers.

The Sheriff's Dept. does not feel this is a legitimate contest and is advising people not to give out this information.

Proud To Back Senior Group

Letters to the Editor:

It was my privilege to attend a recognition luncheon to show appreciation to our Retired Senior Volunteers, referred to as RSVP.

This is not the first time I've been able to observe this group.

The services these seniors perform in our various communities are invaluable. Also, there is a ripple effect so that benefits to many others spin off. Each senior exemplifies Binet's words, "We drop a pebble in the pond and we know not on what far shore a wave will break." What an inspiration to those of us following in the footsteps of these people! And what esprit d' corps! Such fun when each comes from the jobs being performed. There is joy and pride in each senior. The place crackles with it. There is much pleasure in being together.

The RSVP show how life should be lived. A great deal of credit for what's going on within this group should be given to the director of the program, Aleta Thompson. She is dynamic and her commitment and dedication to RSVP is obvious and ever present.

KCC sponsors this fine program and we should all be proud of any small part we can play in supporting this very giving group of people.

Pray For Those Who Are Lost

Dear Mr. Milliman,

(In reference to your June 14th column: "Do as I say, not as I do.")

I have a question, just what are the driving patterns of churchgoers as they leave the weekend service? If they are not what they should be Lord knows we should not be pointing fingers but praying for those who are lost. As to Mr. Gallop's statement, I didn't know there were any fruits of religion, but I do know there are fruits of the Holy Spirit. Galatians 5:22, 23 - The fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long suffering (patience), gentleness, goodness, faith, meekness, temperance; against such there is no law.

So I would think if we would keep our eyes on Jesus and not on man we will do both as he says and does. So let he who is without sin cast the first stone, or accusation. By the way, you are welcome to follow me home from church anytime, but I would pray you would follow me in to church.

Did Not Have Right To Shoot Dog

Dear Editor:

We would like to thank our good neighbor for publicly sharing her sense of loss over the loss of our dear friend and dog, who was shot in Sherwood Forest subdivision on June 6. Although our Oakie was loose from his chain, that did not give someone the right to shoot him. We are deeply saddened, but very much appreciative of Dr. Mesack and the neighbors who showed concern by calling the police, sharing our horror.

What concerns our family and friends is the senseless disregard for the law and malicious intent exhibited by the individual who shot our dog. There were two bullets fired on that summer night with children playing nearby. One of the bullets struck a stud on Oakie's collar, ricocheting somewhere. It could have struck a child. It's frightening.

The Sheriff's Department

can be applauded for their sincere efforts in attempting to identify and charge the individual responsible. Until that occurs, we'll remain a little less secure in our neighborhood — our home.

Think 'Reusable' Instead of Disposable

Letters to the Editor:

Thank Goodness! Facilities for recycling have finally come to Grayling. I have been saving everything that can be recycled for about a month and a half. Although I still do not know a great deal about recycling, I am learning more all the time. It would be great if everyone in the community took an honest interest in it.

It does take a while to change your habits and way of thinking, but after some time it becomes second nature. The trick is to think "reusable" instead of "disposable." At my home we have went from about five bags of garbage per week to one and a half. I hope to cut that down even more.

I would like to share some information from a pamphlet I received from the Environmental Defense Fund (EDF).

1. Every week, more than 500,000 trees are used to produce the two-thirds of newspapers that are never recycled.

2. We throw away enough glass bottles and jars to fill the 1,350 ft twin towers of New York's World Trade Center every two weeks.

3. Americans go through 2.5 million plastic bottles every hour, only a small percentage of which are now recycled.

4. We throw away enough office and writing paper annually to build a wall twelve feet high stretching from Los Angeles to New York City.

5. We throw away enough iron and steel to continuously supply all the nation's auto-makers.

If you are going to start recycling it is easiest to take care of something as soon as it is emptied or done with, instead of letting it pile up. Items to be recycled must be very clean and this is easiest when done as soon as possible. It also helps to have the labels removed. I usually soak soap bottles, jars, and cans in the same water I wash the dishes. The label usually comes off in one piece which can then be saved. Most labels are "shiny" and I had read that shiny paper such as the paper catalogs are printed on, and boxes with the smooth, white insides cannot be recycled. I keep them anyway in a separate bag because I'm sure a way will be found to make use of them.

Tuna, soup, and juice cans should be cleaned thoroughly, both ends cut out if possible, then crushed. You can crush them by hand. Cereal boxes, mixes, convenience foods, etc., should have the inner bag removed, if any, and each end opened and flattened. The inner bags can be re-used for various things in the kitchen.

Once you make a habit of saving things for recycling, you will automatically shop wiser. Look for over-packaging of items and try to avoid them if possible. Also, try not to buy anything that says disposable.

If you have children, it helps to get them involved in the recycling of things. They find it fun and learn the importance of taking care of this earth.

The Stars and Stripes Represent This Great Country

Letters to Editor:

As I flutter in the breeze I watch and wait to see if this unruly mob will tear me from the mast from which I have flown since time long ago when every loyal American would look up at me with pride and think this is my flag; symbol of my country. This mob which is now appearing before me cannot or will not see that I represent something their Fathers, yes and forefathers, fought so gallantly for and in fact many gave their lives for, to enable you to live in freedom. One of you now stands before me looking up, not with pride or a stir within your breast, but a hatred for me and everything I stand for.

You poor misguided creature for that is what you are. Dig deep if you dare, deep enough to find love, love for your country, for your fellow man, and love for me. I represented this great country long before, before you were born, and will do so long after you have gone.

You now start shouting obscenities about your leaders and your country, as you begin to tug at the ropes holding me aloft. I stop fluttering, looking down at you with pity as you lower me not too gently to the ground and trample me into the dirt. You now set fire not to me, but to something that belongs to every American. As I burn and smolder I say, although you cannot hear me, God forgive you. Everyone is placed on this earth for a reason, for you I cannot say. In years to come you will have passed away and if ever you come back to this earth again to this spot, just cast your eyes upward and you will see Old Glory still flying in the breeze. This time give a salute and bow your head as you remember. You see, neither you nor any of your kind can destroy anything that is good or right for all Americans.

Everything's rosy... isn't it?

SURPRISE, SURPRISE. Gov. James Blanchard is going to run for a third term.

He made it official the other day, with a full-fledged campaign opening, including a statewide swing that began on his home turf in Oakland County.

The fact is that Mr. Blanchard has been running for months. He has been spending plenty of money on his campaign already. So why the sham about a formal announcement? A candidate is a candidate, regardless of whether he has "announced."

Mr. Blanchard — now that he's a real live candidate — made a few campaign promises. He vowed he would come up with "real programs, real solutions to real problems."

Let us hope so. He has been in office for eight years now, and would have us believe things are going well, and that he's the reason Michigan is in such good shape. But is everything all that rosy in Michigan?

BACK AT THE capitol, Mr. Blanchard's budget director was talking about something else.

Shelby Solomon, the governor's budget chief, was talking about a $250 million state budget deficit for the current year.

He suggested state employees might want to volunteer to help out the state by cutting back their own work time from 40 hours to 36 hours a week... or by taking up to three months of unpaid leave time... or by working 40 hours as usual, but taking pay for only 36 hours, and take the other four hours either in pay or time off at some day in the future.

Michigan has about 65,000 state employees; average annual pay of a state employee is just over $30,000.

How much the plan might save is up for debate. It would depend on how many employees volunteered to cut back. Best guess is it wouldn't save much. Gov. Bill Milliken, when faced with economic similar straits a dozen years or so ago, came up with a similar program. It helped, but it didn't solve the basic problems of too much outgo coupled with not enough income.

Some state employees might think twice about taking off for three months on unpaid leave. They might find out their department could do without them. That's always a danger for anybody who works for a living.

BUDGET MAKERS are looking at other options. Tax increases have been ruled out primarily because this is an election year.

Some have suggested raiding the state's so-called "rainy day" fund — which is a fund set aside over past years to tide the state past fiscal crises in the future. The fund is now at $383 million. Apparently the little old $250 million deficit (on a $7.6 billion budget) is not serious enough to qualify as a true rainy day.

Some have suggested deferring payments to colleges until the next fiscal year; that's a type of bookkeeping sleight of hand — used frequently in Michigan and other jurisdictions over the past — which just defers obligations to make a bad financial year look better than it is. Such bookkeeping tinkering solves nothing... only delays the problem.

The present budget shortfall is blamed on several factors — higher-than-expected spending for welfare and prisons, along with the lower-than-expected collections of some business taxes.

It boils down to the state spending more than it takes in.

ALL OF THIS, of course, comes as Mr. Blanchard is announcing for a third term.

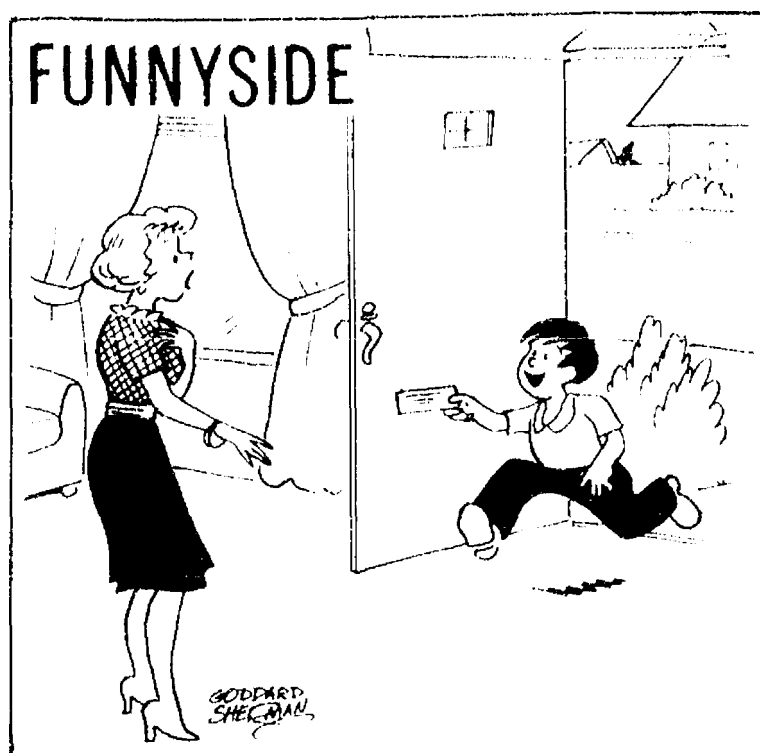

He has been in office eight years now, and we will be hearing over and over during this campaign year that he has done wonders for economic growth in Michigan and for creating new jobs and for raising the standard of living in the state and for economic and prudent government operations.

If all of this is true — and Mr. Blanchard certainly has the charts to prove that in many ways, it is true — then how come his budget makers are talking about asking state employees to take some free time off to help reduce the deficit?

How come Mr. Blanchard's budgeteers are even considering dipping into the "rainy day" fund?

How come they're looking at juggling payments from one fiscal year to the next which may make things look better now, but only delays facing the music?

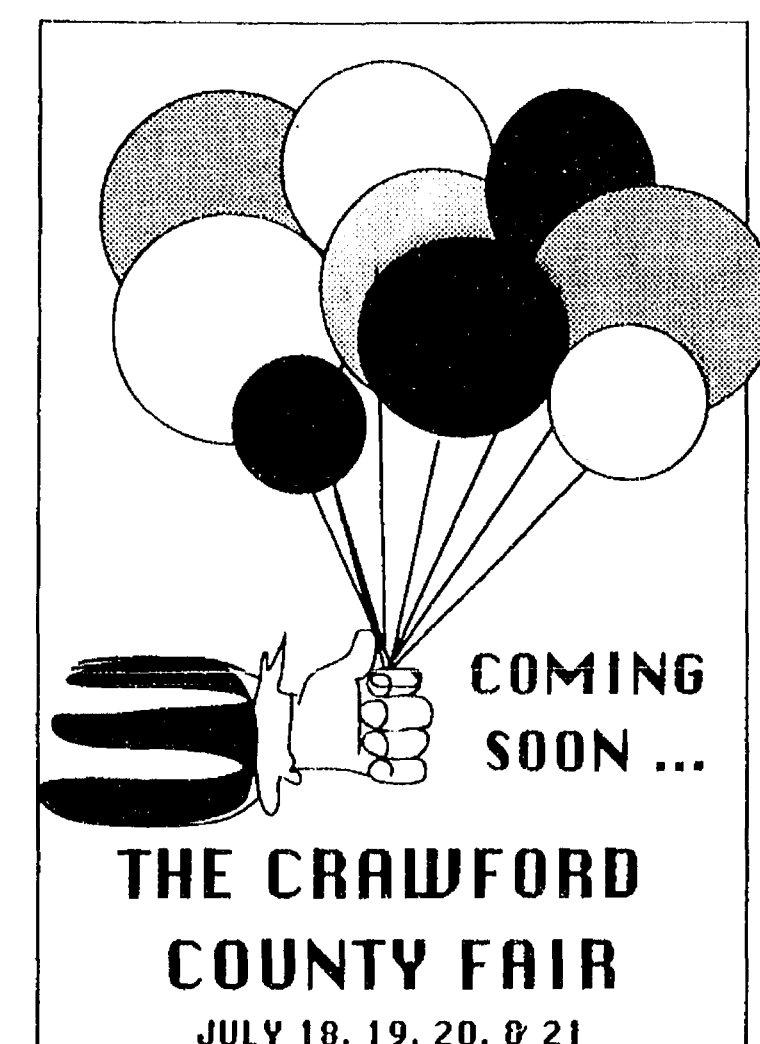

Are things really as rosy in Michigan government finances as voters have been led to believe? Maybe the 1990 campaign for governor will give them some answers.

"We're gonna be famous, Mom! I sold your diary to the National Enquirer!"

"That must be where they keep the bed pans."

Let's Talk About It

By Joe Murphy

I think all of us at times complain about high taxes. Much of that complaining is directed at the schools and the high cost of education today. We tend to forget in education as in everything else, you get what you pay for. If you want a quality product you have to pay for it. When I attended the graduation of the class of '90 I was reassured that our schools are turning out a quality product. I know many are planning to go on with their studies which I feel is one of the by products of the high quality of our schools. Those graduates feel qualified to compete with the students of any school in the country. They are confident they have the basic education on which they can go ahead and accomplish the goals they have set for themselves. Do we really want to save a few dollars in taxes and prevent our school's production of high quality graduates that are confident of their ability to compete with anyone? I really don't think we do.

I wish to congratulate the graduates and wish them a long and successful career in their chosen field. We will need those bright young minds to lead us in a peaceful, prosperous Twenty-first century.

If good barbecued ribs are your thing, as they are mine, I've found a place to pig out on real good ones. Bob Lee, who runs the kitchen at Siggy's, can really turn out great ribs. All of their menu items win praise but those ribs are the answer to a rib lovers prayer. Bob don't clutter things up with a lot of things you wouldn't eat anyway, a big slab of ribs, rolls, and coleslaw, who wants to fill up on anything else when great ribs are on the plate. Bob began cooking when he was fourteen and except for some short breaks, has stuck to it. If Bob had been a cook in the old time lumber camps, the only way they would have got rid of a jack would have been to hang him. Stop in at Siggy's and enjoy some great food at prices you'll love.

The Crawford County area continues to grow and prosper. New construction is going on all over the county. The new D.N.R. complex on M-93 is a good addition to our area. New churches, homes, and business places are under construction. I think that speaks well for the future of Crawford County and the confidence people have in the area. While some folks seem to stress the negative aspects of the area, I feel we have way too much on the positive side to listen to the doom-sayers.

Notes from the Woods

By Nancy Lemmen

Thursday, May 10.

The nice lady from the Red Cross looked at me with concern. "Are you all right, dear? Do you need some help?" I smiled. "Do you mean a psychologist?"

"Yes, or a minister."

"No, I'm okay. Do I look bad or something?"

"You look like you need help."

Actually, when I had looked at myself earlier that morning in the bathroom mirror at our friends' home, I was surprised to see that I seemed to look about the same as usual. I had somehow expected that the smoke and smudge marks would become an indelible part of my face, marking me a "fire victim."

Now, only a couple of hours later, here was a stranger telling me that I didn't appear okay. Perhaps it was the sunglasses, which I kept on even inside buildings because I never knew when I would begin to cry. Or perhaps the heavy camouflage hunting jacket, borrowed from my friend, which I wore all day. Or perhaps my face, which had no make-up, or my messy hair, which had not been blown dry.

Or perhaps it was that the words "fire victim" were, indeed, etched into my face for others — if not for me — to perceive. I think so.

A friend described both Dave and me as looking as though we were in shock — drawn face, pale complexion, vacant eyes. And why not? While I'd like to think that she was wrong — that, in fact, we were functioning well, with normal perceptions, appropriate emotions, and enlightened reactions — I suppose she was correct.

How can I explain my state of being? It was as though some force had taken a red-hot, razor-sharp knife and plunged it into my soul, my heart, my brain. It was painful to be conscious; but worse to fall asleep, knowing that when I awoke, I would remember, then immediately experience a new wash of despair and more pain.

Certainly we were in shock, at least some sort of shock. After all, we had just experienced a shocking event. Our house and garage had burned, almost everything we owned had been destroyed, and — most horribly — our animals had died in the fire. Even a stranger could read our faces and see we needed help.

And help we received. A flow of human kindness and healing forces that continues even today. As examples:

The several friends who tried to get to our house to save our animals. All were turned back at the roadblock. But they tried.

Those who called our house to find out if we knew about the raging forest fire. Unfortunately, we weren't home to get the calls.

The friend who perhaps risked his life to go in with me to try to rescue our pets. When we arrived, however, the garage was already engulfed in flames and the house was filled with brown, rolling smoke.

The brave fire fighters who returned to our property when I begged them to try to save my house. We're sorry, they told me sadly when they saw it, but it's too late.

The friends who stood with us in the dark, cold drizzle as we waited that night along North Down River Road with the other evacuees.

The concerned folks who phoned us or one another in the hours and days after the fire to find out how we were doing and what we needed.

The dear friends who swooped us up and took us to their brand new house for the first three nights that we were homeless. I was reluctant to leave the comfort of their home, their children, their pets, and them to strike out on our own.

The many people, from friends to total strangers, who offered us a room, a trailer, an apartment, a cottage, or a home in which we could live.

The pen pal who offered us a respite in her own home in Arizona and counseled us to focus on only the good times with our pets.

The close friends who accompanied us back to the ruins on Wednesday morning to search for the remains of our beloved Jody, Missy, Murphy and Ally. They formed a tender, loving group around us as we buried the charred bodies and bones in the side yard next to Buddy.

The generous friends who loaned us their vacation home on the river until we find ourselves a permanent place. Consider this your house, they told us. Call us if you need anything. Make yourselves comfortable. We are family now.

The many people who sent cards and letters, filled with wisdom, prayers, kind thoughts, good cheer, poetry and offers of help.

The friends and relatives who visited us. Some brought food for a lunch or dinner or snack, a few bore flowers, others brought care packages with grooming supplies, clothes and other goodies.

The thoughtful people who raided their own clothes closets to bring us something to wear in the days following the fire. Those who gave some particularly special or treasured item of clothing.

The women who shared significant parts of their wardrobes with me. The fisherman from Indiana who sent Dave four big boxes of wonderful clothes. The acquaintance who sent Dave dress clothes from downstate. The friends and acquaintances who gave me dress clothes to wear for special events.

The colleagues, relatives and friends, who so very generously gave us cash gifts to ride out the tough time or begin building a nest egg for the new home.

The friends and family who bought us clothing that fit our tastes perfectly. Those who gave us gift certificates so that we could pick out our own.

The folks who gave us cash or gift certificates for an evening or a dinner out, understanding that we would need to seek out some fun times. The friends who made donations in memory of our animals.

The neighbors and friends who invited us to dinner, so that we could laugh and cry and compare stories together.

The fishing buddies of Dave, who bought him a new fly rod, correctly intuiting that he would want and need to get back to the river.

The colleagues and friends who came to our site twice to sift through the ruins. I had it in my mind that in sifting we would find little treasures and mementoes. I was wrong. About all that survived was one horseshoe set. We did, however, find bits and pieces of possessions to remind us of items that should be included on the list for the insurance company.

The friend who helped us prepare our land for the big clean-up effort. Then the large group who performed a miracle in cleaning up our site one hot Saturday in June. The job that can be accomplished by many individuals working together in harmony is truly amazing.

The people who gave us books, understanding better than we did that starting a new library would be important. We now have several boxes of old novels, titles from the Book Club reading list, a New Testament, a bird guide, a Robert Traver book, and a small, sweet story sent as "a gentle farewell" to the pets.

The myriad of gifts: A framed prayer to hang in our new home. A set of luggage. A scrapbook of my writing. A stuffed mother hen and a calico cat. Our favorite chocolate chip cookies. A handmade basket. Recipes files filled with favorite dishes. New cookbooks. Kitchen supplies. A set of dishes. Tools for Dave. And so many other wonderful, thoughtful presents.

The friends and relatives who continue to provide emotional support and assistance as we struggle through the many decisions required to begin a new life.

The Crawford County Sheriff Department, tough people who offered sympathy and kindness when they allowed us to return to our home site after the danger had passed.

The kind people from the emergency management team who gently interviewed us about our losses. The National Guard and Knights of Columbus, which provided bases of operation and many other services. The Ministerial Association and member churches, which hosted meals and donated clothes, bedding, towels, food and cleaning supplies.

The Red Cross worker who wrote us a voucher for clothing and food. We cried as we watched her complete the form, so humbled by our need, so touched by the generosity of strangers.

Mercy Hospital, which provided medical care in the days after the fire. The local and out-of-town businesses that donated food and money and gift certificates, which we have gratefully used.

The many students and friends who have tried to give us a new puppy or kitten. We appreciate their kindness so much. Our plan, however, is to wait until we are in a house of our own and until we have grieved enough for our dead ones before starting again with family pets.

And all the rest, which may go unmentioned here, but is not forgotten by either of us. We have been the beneficiaries of so very much goodness.

Over a month has passed since we lost nearly everything. Some days we feel frustration, exasperation, even despair. Other days we are filled with hope and strength.

Recently Dave asked me, "Do you think that we'll ever again be as happy as we were before the fire?" Who's to know? While the wounds to my heart and my soul still ache acutely and often, still I can feel them healing gradually. I tell Dave that maybe someday they will have scarred over, perhaps even healed completely. I don't know.

But I do know this much: Whatever healing process has taken place and continues to occur is in a large part due to the efforts of all of you. You have my gratitude, my thanks, my love.

KCC Nursing Program Receives State Approval

The Michigan State Board of Nursing requires that Nursing programs undergo a self-study review process every eight years to receive continued state approval. The Practical and Associate Degree Nursing Programs at KCC underwent this self-study review process during the past academic year and had its review by the State Board of Nursing in March, 1990. The study received full acceptance, without recommendation for change.

Advisory committee members (made up of representatives from local hospitals and health care agencies, graduates, current students, faculty, administration, and local employers) contributed to the self study.

In related news, the December 1990 graduates of Kirtland's Assoc. Degree Nursing Program all successfully completed the NCLEX-RN examination for licensure.

The state passing rate was 90%, compared to Kirtland's 100%.

Kirtland Nursing grads in both the Practical Nursing and Assoc. Degree Nursing programs consistently place high in test scores.

About Your Social Security

Disabled persons who work in spite of their disability should be aware of a new law designed to help them retain or regain Medicare coverage. According to Len Connolly, Social Security manager in Traverse City, the new law allows disabled workers who lost premium-free Medicare hospital insurance coverage because of work, to purchase hospital insurance coverage, as well as medical insurance, under Medicare.

"The earliest possible month of coverage under the new rule is July 1990. However, if your Medicare coverage has already lapsed, you must sign up by June 30 if you want your coverage to begin July 1, 1990," Connolly said.

Social Security disability beneficiaries who return to work while still being medically disabled, generally have Medicare coverage for at least 39 months beyond a trial work period, before coverage lapses. Under the new rule, they may now buy Medicare protection beginning with the month they are notified they no longer are entitled to premium-free hospital insurance because of work.

The monthly premium for Medicare hospital insurance is $175 in 1990. Persons who enroll may also purchase Medicare medical insurance, which helps pay for doctor bills. That premium is $28.50 per month.

Disabled people who would be eligible to buy Medicare but who have limited income and resources, should contact the Department of Social Services to see if they meet the State's income and resource limits, and can qualify to have the State pay their Medicare hospital insurance premiums.

To avoid delays in coverage, or premium surcharges, applicants should enroll within seven months after the notification that Medicare coverage has lapsed due to their return to work.

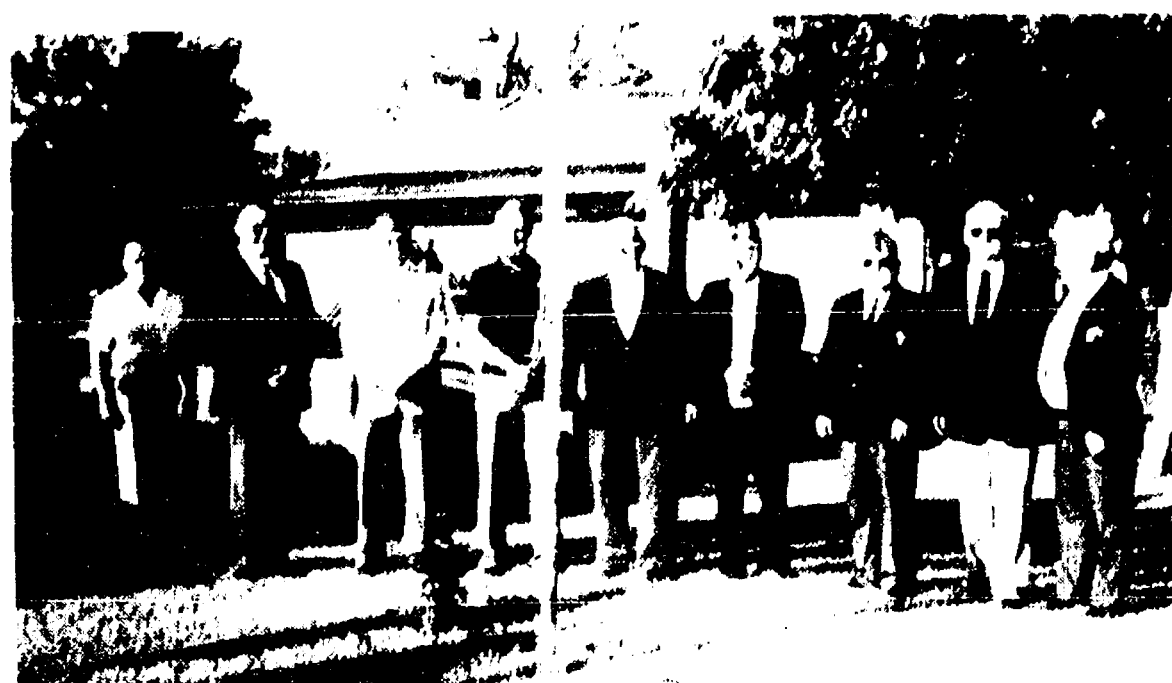

Connolly said disabled people who wish to buy Medicare, or need more information, should contact Social Security. Call toll-free 800-234-5772, 7:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., any business day. Or, visit the office at 111 E. Front St., Traverse City.

Street Program

take a vote by Grayling residents to use the money for anything else.

Mayor Robert Golnick was a member of the City Council when the issue of an income tax for the purpose of street construction was being hotly discussed by city residents. He said the city tried to pass a city income tax by resolution three times before it was approved and each time referendums were called and residents defeated the tax.

The income tax issue appeared on the ballot for the fourth time after a group of citizens, led by George Bielski and Lloyd Crawford, collected 200 signatures. The issue passed 362 yes to 151 no.

"I think the city income tax was one of the best programs that ever happened in this community," said Golnick. "Without it we would still have the streets we had in 1972 because we just don't have enough money in the general fund to pay for street constructions costs."

Mayor Golnick said when the city began receiving revenue sharing funds they opted not to hire additional city employees. Instead they put that money, along with a $300,000 grant, toward street improvement which helped to speed up the construction process.

Grayling is the smallest city in Michigan to have an income tax, and Golnick said he believes it is also the only city that has its income tax earmarked for street improvement. He said he has never heard a complaint about the tax from either Grayling residents or "out-of-towners" because its use has been so beneficial to everyone.

"Even if our streets were in A-1 condition today," said Golnick, "I believe we would still need the income tax to keep them that way in the future. There is no way the city could afford to pay for street maintenance using general funds."

UNHAPPY TAXPAYER

Whereas most people interviewed said they were happy with the results of the street construction program, one Grayling resident was not.

Leo Rozenek said that for the past 48 years he thought he lived on Fig Street, but much to his surprise, when the city paved the street this month, the paving came up to his property and stopped.

"I was very disappointed that I was not notified there was a problem with the right-of-way," he said. "I wish the city would have contacted me."

Rozenek said he has hired Meyers to survey the property in an effort to find out exactly where his property boundaries are.

He said if the survey shows that he owns the property in front of his house and if the city would come back and curb, gutter and pave the area he would gladly give the city the necessary right-of-way.

"If I own the land and they won't pave it," he said, "I may block it off."

Morford said the street in front of the Rozenek residence was not paved because the city does not own the right-of-way. He contended that Rozenek had not been notified that the street would not be paved and that the city did not attempt to secure the right-of-way.

"Mr. Rozenek can give the city right-of-way for the 33 feet of property he owns," explained Morford, "but he does not own the remaining 33 feet needed to construct the street."

Morford said the city did not pursue the right-of-way because the street was to dead-end somewhere in that vicinity anyway, and the street is now paved to his property line, giving him direct access to his property.

"I would be happy to discuss the problem with Mr. Rozenek," Morford said.

225 'Loners On Wheels' Expected Here June 20-24

The Midwest Rally for Loners On Wheels will be held at Pine Knoll Campground in Grayling Wednesday, June 20 to Sunday, June 24.

About 175 to 225 members are expected. Most Loners On Wheels members are retired. About 75 percent have motor homes, about 20 percent use travel trailers, and the rest use other forms of recreational travel vehicles.

The Midwest Rally is hosted by the Michigan Chapter but will attract members from across the United States.

Fred Taylor, of Grayling, is currently the only local member, but the group has invited anyone to come out to the rally who might want to join the group.

National Guard units from Camp Grayling are assisting the group. They put up a 18 by 52 foot military tent for a gathering place at the campground for the group. Camp Grayling is also going to provide a tour of its facilities for the group.

Members of the group said Pine Knoll owner Larry Gust has been helpful in setting up the rally. The Grayling Chamber of Commerce also drew praise for sending plenty of information about Crawford County to the group within a week after receiving the request.

The Loners On Wheels will open their rally with a wine and cheese gathering on Wednesday.

Par for the Course

The following women were winners on Wednesday morning, June 13, during regular play for the Golf Auxiliary. Winning low net in Flight A was Mary Jane Knibbs with a 34; Flight B, Kathy Olsen with a 32; and Flight C, Evelyn Kent and Phyllis Scheer with a 37.

On June 11, fifty-nine members enjoyed a beautiful evening of golf. Prizes were awarded for chip-ins, Norma Naour, and Julie Doremire; lowest score minus putts, Donna Pottorff; high score on 3-6-8, Linda Munsey; low score on 1-2-9, Grace Wagner, and Ricki Stahl; longest drive on number five, Shirley Schultz; longest putt on number seven, Joyce Sorenson.

A video that was taped during the last golf outing last year was shown for the first time and enjoyed. A delicious meal of chicken, potato salad or cole slaw, and biscuit was catered by Chicken Delight.

Walking Club Meets June 28

A second meeting is scheduled for the Hanson Hills Walking Club. The meeting is scheduled for Thursday, June 28, 1990. The meeting will start at 7:00 p.m. and everyone is invited to attend. There is no fee for joining the club, so come on out and get some exercise and meet new friends. For further information, call the recreation department at 348-9266.

CFCS Catholic Charities Move Offices To Michelson

CFCS Catholic Charities, formerly Community, Family and Children Services, has moved its office from the St. Mary's Convent to the Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church and is continuing to offer counseling services to residents of Crawford County.

"We were happy when CFCS approached us," said Dr. Dennis Paulson, minister at Michelson Memorial Church. "There is a very definite need in our community for competent mental health services. The community's existing mental health services are taxed to the limit," he said.

CFCS has been providing counseling services to Crawford County for five years.

Services offered include individual, marital, and family counseling with the focus on family counseling. CFCS also offers substance abuse assessments, pregnancy counseling, adoption services, and a community correction service.

"When one member of a family is having a problem, regardless of the type of problem, it is going to affect the entire family," said Bernie Dunning, administrative supervisor for the Central Office District. "For this reason we usually try to bring family members together in our counseling efforts."

Mitzye Baker, a limited licensed psychologist, will be at the Grayling office on Wednesdays. Baker has been with CFCS Catholic Charities for about four years. Appointments can be made by calling 348-3149. For immediate attention, residents should call the Gaylord office at 732-6761.

Pregnancy counseling is available free of charge. This service is offered not only to the woman contemplating abortion and also to families experiencing any form of ambivalence about a pregnancy. These problems may include jealousy by a child, financial stress, or medical problems.

Ellen Campbell, R.N. heads

CFCS's open adoption service. An open adoption permits the birth mother to select her child's adoptive parents, and then allows the birth mother to remain in contact with the adoptive family and their child.

"We were one of the first two agencies in the country to go with open adoption," said Dunning. "Now we are asked by agencies all over to come and explain how our program works."

Dunning said CFCS will do closed adoptions, but only by the request of the birth mother.

Adolescent assessments is another service CFCS provides to schools, courts, and parents free of charge. During this assessment, the counselor works with juveniles who have exhibited behavioral changes to assess what brought about the change and to make recommendations. Dunning said this assessment is usually made to determine whether substance abuse is a contributing factor in the change in behavior.

The Employee Assistance Program (EAP) gives employers an opportunity to help valued employees work through problems such as substance abuse, family crisis, or problems at their work site.

In the program, employers agree to pay for three sessions and CFCS personnel conduct an assessment of the employee's problem. Glen's Market and Mercy Hospital both participate in EAP.

"This program saves jobs and cuts down the need to constantly be training employees," said Dunning. "The program also provides in-service training for management to help them identify employees who would benefit by the assessment."

CFCS has a contract with the State Correction Dept. to operate its community correction service. This service works with Circuit Court parolees to help them successfully assimilate into the community.

The program includes testing to assess a person's skills and compares these skills to the area's employment demands. This assessment may recommend further education such as acquiring a G.E.D. or high school diploma, or even recommend college. CFCS utilizes all available community, state, and federal programs for educational training.

Parolees are taught how to write an employment resume and the program works with the business community to assist with job placement. If counseling is needed, the parolee is appropriately referred.

Last year CFCS successfully placed 90 parolees in northeastern Michigan. Success was determined when the parolee stayed on the job for six months.

"This program provides personal attention through a reality based support system that follows through for several years if necessary," said Dr. Paulson, who has his doctorate in psychology.

The community corrections service also works with persons sentenced to do community service time and making restitution instead of going to jail.

Dr. Paulson said Crawford County is fortunate to have CFCS Catholic Charities serving this area.

"It is difficult to bring competent people to this area," he said. "In private practice these same people could be pulling in $80 an hour."

Frank Michaels will be working with the Grayling community correction program on Mondays.

The goal of the program is to reduce the parolee's chance of committing another criminal act.

CFCS Catholic Charities is the social service arm of the Grayling Diocese and is in part supported by United Way, and Catholic Service Appeal (CSA). The Grayling office is also supported by the Michelson Memorial United Methodist Church.

Services fees are based on a sliding scale according to family size and income. Fees vary from $5 to $55 per visit.

Camp AuSable Hosts 140 Young Campers

This week Camp AuSable hosts 140 eleven year old children. Last week their younger relatives, the ten year old campers were there.

They begin the day with reveille at 7:30 a.m. In just 40 minutes they are dressed and ready for the Morning Watch. Each day they memorize a text of scripture such as, "Children obey your parents in all things, for this is pleasing unto the Lord." Colossians 3:20.

Following the flag raising, personal inspection and breakfast, the campers prepare their cabins for inspection. Camp council is conducted by a visiting pastor, who is present all week and presents a short talk on character building. He also conducts the evening campfire program with an appropriate story.

Each camper attends two classes for instruction in nature, archery, crafts, swimming, sailing, skiing, horsemanship, or ceramics.

In the afternoon following rest period, supervised activities are scheduled. The campers are divided into three groups, while one group engages in outdoor nature study, the others are on the waterfront engaging in sailing, swimming, canoeing, and skiing, or are riding horses and 4-wheelers.

TAKE A FEW MINUTES TO GO THROUGH YOUR GARBAGE.

Every week more than 500,000 trees are used to produce the two-thirds of newspapers that are never recycled.

American consumers and industry throw away enough aluminum to rebuild our entire commercial air fleet every three months.

We throw away enough glass bottles and jars to fill the 1,350-foot twin towers of New York's World Trade Center every two weeks.

We throw away enough iron and steel to continuously supply all the nation's automakers.

The ordinary bag of trash you throw away is slowly becoming a serious problem for everybody.

Not only are we running out of resources to make the products we need, but we're running out of places to put what's left over.

Write the Environmental Defense Fund at: 257 Park Avenue South, New York, NY 10010, for a free brochure that will tell you virtually everything you need to know about recycling.

The few minutes you take to learn how to recycle will spare us all a lot of garbage later.

TIMELESS TOLL

Miss Libby preened by 'Autie's' side that first day of his fateful ride.
Then pleased within his strategy,
the General called, "Troops, follow me!"

This Army man of earned degree held be his pledge of loyalty,
Set out to face great Crazy Horse in war where doom would hold recourse.

Consensus was, The Red Man pays, for not accepting White Man's ways.
But, time was high in pagan prayers to reclaim land they knew was theirs.

East Coast reporters, packs in tow arrived by mule to view the show.
The noble Sioux, their hearts aflame, from their beloved Black Hills came.

So valiantly, that regal band showed scarlet pride and bloodied hand.
The braves were strong, their spirit high a truly cloudless day... to die.

The seasoned Seventh Cavalry dispatched to dust! How could that be!
No white survived that firestorm.
Three Custers died. A Nation mourned.

The fear-struck few to judge the rout held mixed emotions, myriad doubts.
A deathly blow, and no side won.
An evil deed... and evil done.

Some Eastern stories published then cried for equality in men.
The future seemed too far away
On that confused and blood-stained day.

They're all gone now, just names are here like Gail, Dull Knife, and Yellow Hair.
Hushed killing fields render the tale of broken treaties, unheard wails.

'Tho Washita and Wounded Knee have left their scar on history
It's of injustice, grief is born.
God saw hope... at Little Big Horn.

The state of Minnesota has some interesting fishing regulations. Many are similar to Michigan, but there are quite a number which are very different.

The cost for a Minnesota resident fishing license is $12.00, plus a $1.00 agents fee. A trout stamp is an additional $5.00 plus fee. If a person wishes to use a "fish house or dark house" (ice spearing shanty) to spear, it will cost an additional $12.00 plus fee, for a "Dark House Spearing Licence" and $8.00 for a "dark house" permit. Also, fishing licenses are required at age 16 in Minnesota. Non-residents under 16 do not need a license unless they wish to possess their own limit of fish. Otherwise, their fish will count towards the limit of the parent or guardian.

Seasons and creel limits are similar to Michigan, but size limits only apply in certain circumstances. Special regulations apply on boundary water with Iowa, Wisconsin, South Dakota, North Dakota, and Canada.

Some of the general restrictions which I found interesting are as follows. It is unlawful: to drive a motor boat through designated spawning areas; to drag boat anchors through aquatic vegetation; to use game fish on perch as bait; to use tip-ups for ice fishing if owner is more than 80 feet away; to use more than one line or hooks except in certain circumstances; to fish for trout from 11:00 p.m. until one hour before sunrise, and to catch and sort fish once a limit has been placed on a stringer or in a live well.

Special rules apply to the use of "dark houses" or ice fishing shanties. They must be licensed and tagged as well as having the owners name and address attached. They must be constructed so that the door can be opened from the outside at "any and all times" and it is unlawful to use tip-ups while spearing. Dark houses must be removed from the lakes by the last day of February, and it is unlawful for non-residents to spear in Minnesota.

Catch and release fishing is encouraged in Minnesota, though not mandatory. Trophy regulations apply on some trout waters. Catch and release angling during the closed season on any species is not permitted.

Doodles from the Tall Timber

By Wendall L. Hoover

Have you ever walked through an area where there are orb style spider webs? I have often remarked to others and myself that those webs are beautiful as well as fascinating. If you are interested in trying your hand at collecting some, there is a way.

According to one source I have, you will need a spray can of good-quality enamel paint as the inexpensive paints may dissolve the web, a can of clear drying fixative spray, and colored construction paper to go with your paint. (For example, black paper for white paint.)

When you find a web you might like to collect, make sure the spider is not in it.

Usually you can blow on the web to make the spider vacate the premises. Hold the paint can at least ten inches away from the web and carefully and completely spray it. Spray at an angle from the sides for the best results. Keep in mind you may have to use several coats of paint to make all the threads distinct. Try not to spray other near-by objects.

Cut the paper slightly larger than the web and spray it with the fixative until it looks wet. Place the wet paper against the back of the web and the web should stick to it. Break the anchor lines at the edges of the paper and lift the web free. A coat of fixative over the top of the web will preserve and protect it.

Verse or Worse

By Joe Murphy

CHILDHOOD PAL

I met an old man today that claimed to be
A boy that once lived next door to me
No! That can't be him for just today in memory he joined me at play

We laughed and talked and ran some races
Bare foot boys with smiling faces
We each grabbed our old cane pole
And ran down to the fishing hole

We talked of how days of youth dragged by
As we languished there beneath God's blue sky
We talked of how great life would be
When at last we reached maturity

Those days of childhood we passed
We were proud to be grown men at last
But we quickly found the grown up life
Was short on joy and long on strife

We soon remembered those days gone by
With a look of sadness in our eye
As we recalled the fun we had back then
We wished we were boys again

My old childhood pal soon moved away
Looking for work at better pay
We wrote to each other now and then
But that soon stopped as we were busy men

Can that old man so stooped and grey
Really be my old friend of yesterday
I look in the mirror and am surprised to see
Another old man looking back at me

Animal Care Tip

The Crawford AuSable School District Headstart Program opened its doors this Monday (June 19) to thirty children. These youngsters will enter kindergarten in the fall, and this program is designed to help them make a better adjustment to school life.

Ray Murphy, Supervisor of Frederic Township for well over 30 years, passed away at Munson Hospital June 16, 1967 in Traverse City following surgery.

Approximately 175 elementary school students have registered for the day camp being conducted by the Crawford AuSable School District this summer. The camp is comprised of a total of 13 adults and 10 Junior Counselors. Each student participating in the summer camp program has been provided with a camp T-shirt monogrammed with the name "Crawford AuSable Day Camp". The Junior staff members have also been issued a special camp sweat-shirt. Fraser Dean, who organized the program, is serving as the director.

The young people of Grayling are soon to have a young adult dance club. A building to house the club is presently under construction adjacent to the Little League baseball field. Manager Thomas Stan-cil has named the new facility "The Teen Scene."

The annual awards program of the Crawford AuSable School District was held Wednesday afternoon, June 7th, at the high school gym. Members of the faculty made the presentations. Rev. W. H. Kuhlman returned from the annual conference of the Methodist Church at Saginaw on Monday and reports that a shortage of ministers in this district compelled him to reconsider retiring from the ministry and to accept a pastorate at Bay Port, near Caro, where he enjoyed several years of service in the Caro church. Rev. Ernest A. Benedict of Postoria, Mich., will fill the vacancy here. We welcome him and his wife to this community.

Yesterday was the first day of summer. If that doesn't warm things up — perhaps the national Republican convention on the 26th will do so.

Nelle Cary Welsh and Howard DeLaMater of the Class of 1944, Grayling High School, have received the American Legion Awards. These awards are made each year by American Legion Post No. 106 and are given for the following characteristics: Honor, courage, scholarship, leadership, and service, which are necessary to preserve the fundamental institutions of our Government and the advancement of society. Howard also received the Kiwanis award of $25 for outstanding citizenship, active school spirit, and scholastic standing.

On Saturday — before graduation — Grayling was buzzing with a new line of conversation and activity — for Grayling was the proud possessor of a smart new hotel shop which held its formal opening on that day — located in Shoppenagons Inn — specializing in gifts of distinction — known as Margot's — owned and operated by Miss Margaret Cassidy. For the summer months Miss Margaret will be assisted by Miss Billyann Clippert, who was one of our charming graduates this season.

Vacation Bible School Planned

Calvary Baptist Church, on M-72 West, will have their daily vacation Bible school June 25-29 from 7-8 p.m. It's for the whole family and parents are encouraged to come and see the activities and Bible stories. This year's stories will feature the Apostle Peter. Dr. William Sherbert will once again present these unique stories. There will be choruses, verses, song, and Bible drills and prizes.

Clothing Donations Available Here

The donations that were given to the Thrift Shop for the burned victims will be dispensed until June 30. Whomever donated may come to the shop and pick up their items, otherwise all merchandise will be sold in the shop. Fire victims may still receive clothing after that date without any cost. Any questions call 348-2572 or 348-2237.

The Bible Speaks

I John 2:18, 19 Part # 8 Divisions of Antichrists

In verses 18 through 29 we shall study characteristics of antichrists in relationship to division, doctrine, and deception. The first warning about division concerns the time it will take place. "Little children, it is the last time; and as ye have heard that antichrist shall come, even now are there antichrists; whereby we know that it is the last time." (I John 2:18). The Bible teaches us that the end times will be marked by increased apostasy lead by false antichrists. This is in contrast to the modern claims of growing ecumenical unity in the faith. Today, little is being said about antichrists!

Paul told us, "Now the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter time some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils." (I Tim. 4:1). "This know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come." (2 Tim. 3:1). "For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." (2 Tim 4:3, 4). Peter said, "Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts." (2 Pet. 3:3). Jude said, "How that they told you there should be mockers in the last time, who should walk after their own ungodly lusts." (Jude 18).

The reason people don't know about antichrists is because they have been deceived. Jesus Christ said, "For many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and shall deceive many." (Mat. 24:5). "For there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and shall shew great signs and wonder; insomuch that, if it were possible, they shall deceive the very elect." (Mat. 24:24). Just claiming the title or name does not make one a Christian.

The spirit of antichrist is marked by division. "They went out from us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us, they would not doubt have continued with us; but they went out, that they might be made manifest that they were not all of us." (I John 2:19). As Jude described them, "These be they who separate themselves, sensual, having not the Spirit." (Jude 19). Peter said, "For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them." (2 Pet. 2:21). The opposite of division is faithful attendance in a strong Bible believing church. "Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another; and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching." (Heb. 10:25).

CHURCH DIRECTORY

"The Whole World In HIS Hands"

When we are infants, we instinctively clutch the finger of our mother or father, holding tightly, knowing that we must cling to our parents for mere survival. As toddlers and young children, we are taught values and rules by which to live, based on our parents' wisdom and beliefs.

As the pre-teen and teen years ensue, we experience a new influence — peer pressure. As we are influenced by our friends, we may feel that our parents' beliefs are outdated, and may go astray.

As a result, we enter into situations which can be difficult to resolve alone.

Even though we may not feel we deserve it, our parents are still there. All is not lost. This is unconditional love.

God, our heavenly Father, is the supreme example of unconditional love, ever present in time of need. It is available to all who will accept it.

Receive God's love. All is not lost.

Coffee Creamers

Both non-dairy coffee whiteners and real half-and-half cream have 20 calories per tablespoon. But, some non-dairy coffee creamers are made with tropical oils, so they are high in saturated fat. Instead, opt for real dairy products, some of which are lower in fat and calories (such as milk) than non-dairy coffee creamers.

BOYS' STATE REPRESENTATIVES — Three Grayling High School juniors represented their school at the 53rd edition of Michigan American Legion Boys' State, held annually on the campus of Michigan State University.

Pictured in the 1st row are: Mike McMillan, Matt Holcamp and Jamie Petrie, who were chosen from GHS to join with nearly 1,000 other high school students this June to learn how politics and city, county and state governments function. Boys' State is designed to have its participants set up their own state with all of its governmental bodies, problems and opportunities.

In the 2nd row are: John Keir, from the American Legion; Carl Naghtin, from the Kiwanis Club; and Bill Klinger, from the Rotary Club. These three local service organizations contribute the funds needed to send representatives each year to Boys' State.

GIRLS' STATE DELEGATES — Three juniors represented Grayling High School at the 50th annual session of the American Legion Auxiliary's Girls' State, held on the campus of Central Michigan University.

Pictured in the 1st row are: Lisa Jo Barber, Heather Stephenson and Jennifer Lochner, who were selected from GHS in a process based on recognizing interests, character and potential abilities.

The purposes of Girls' State are: to emphasize the importance of government in modern life, to stimulate a deep and lasting interest in government and to enlarge participants' understanding of the governmental process.

In the 2nd row are: R.J. Hannan, from the Kiwanis Club; Mike Branch, from the Rotary Club; and Rosalyn Johnson, from the American Legion Auxiliary. These three local service groups contribute the funds needed to send representatives to the annual event every June.

Guidelines For Milltown Festival Pet Show

The Milltown Festival Pet Show promises to be a fun event both for the participant and the spectator. If you are interested in entering your pet, or know of someone who might be interested, the following clip-out guidelines are for you. Have fun with it - we hope to see all of you on Saturday, June 28, at 1 p.m.

Pet Show Guidelines and Suggestions

1. Your pet's shots should be up to date.
2. All kinds of animals are welcome.
3. Pets must be on a leash or contained as a safety precaution.
4. Pets and owners must dress in costume representing the country the pet's breed originated from. If you are unsure of your pet's origins be creative! How about coming as an immigrant, or pioneers, or Indians? The possibilities are endless.
5. Do not come more than a half hour before judging so your animal won't get too tired or hot. Never leave your pet unattended in the car.
6. All pets entering the contest are welcome to be the honored guests of Twin Maples Kennels to walk in the parade later in the day (parade begins at 3:00 p.m.).
7. Judging will begin promptly at 1 p.m.
8. Prizes will be awarded at time of judging.

Judging will be based on the following categories:

1. Funniest.
2. Look alikes (pet and owner matching dress).
3. Most authentic costume.
4. Most original costume.

No pre-registration is necessary. If you have any questions, please call Linda Sprague at 348-7209. The Grayling Uptown District Association is sponsoring the pet show and other fun entertainment for Milltown Festival. Be watching your Avalanche for further information.

New Northern Michigan Mobile Care Unit Based At Mercy Hospital

A new mobile intensive care unit (MICU) began serving critical care patients at hospitals throughout northern Michigan on June 18, under the direction of North Flight EMS, one of the emergency air transport programs utilized at Mercy Hospital/Grayling.

The MICU is a service for all of northern Michigan, and is being based at Mercy Hospital in Grayling because of its central location. Additionally, the MICU will provide ground transportation to the patient's or physician's hospital of choice.

"The MICU is based at Grayling Mercy in order to decrease driving times throughout the region," said Noreen Davis, Vice President of Patient Care Services and Operations at Mercy Hospital. "It will serve hospitals throughout northern Michigan, providing patient transports from small hospitals to specialized medical centers. Typical patients will include those suffering from life-threatening heart disease, brain injuries, trauma and respiratory problems among others. The service will complement the new ambulance service in Crawford County."

"This is not an ambulance. It's an extension of the intensive care unit environment," said Janet McIntosh, R.N., North Flight Director. She notes that the MICU is housed in an ambulance truck, featuring all of the resources of a hospital intensive care unit, including a cardiac monitor, external pacemaker, intravenous infusion pumps, ventilator and full complement of medications for critically ill patients. The unit is staffed on a 24-hour basis by a critical care nurse, paramedic and driver linked by radio contact to Munson Medical Center in Traverse City.

"It's important to note that this is a team effort between community hospitals and North Flight," says McIntosh. "The sole purpose of the mobile ICU will be to transport critical care patients between hospitals. One benefit of this is that it allows local ambulances to concentrate on emergency cases in their community without having to leave the area on non-emergency transports. Small hospitals will also benefit because they won't have to give up scarce nursing personnel for patient transports."

The idea for the MICU was developed as a cooperative effort between hospitals in order to provide another way of transporting critical care patients during times when the North Flight helicopter was grounded by bad weather or already engaged in a flight.

"We found that many hospitals are transporting patients who need monitoring enroute, such as those with cardiac problems," McIntosh says. "Community hospitals throughout the region are transporting at least 1,000 patients per year who need monitoring of critical functions. The MICU will provide an improvement over the level of monitoring and care currently found on transports."

Patients transported via the MICU will receive monitoring and care equal to that of a hospital environment. Medical control of the unit will be maintained through Munson Medical Center, with radio contact maintained with the hospital's emergency department. McIntosh says the MICU team hopes to complete 300 patient transports during its first year.
